CONTAINING

An alphabetically arranged list of business firms and private citizens with their occupations and addresses, a complete street department alphabetically arranged with the householders numerically compiled; a classified list of all business callings, professions and pursuits; in Atlanta and surrounding towns, a miscellaneous department showing the United States, State, county and city government representatives; churches, secret orders and benevolent societies; railroads, etc.

Our representatives are instructed and authorized to collect in advance on all orders of less than $5.00, giving our receipt signed by themselves.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $6.00.

SELLING PRICE AFTER PUBLICATION, $7.00.

In presenting this, the 30th annual edition of the Atlanta City Directory, we feel that no better Directory of this city has ever been made, neither has Atlanta ever enjoyed a better or more prosperous year than the one just passed, and the indications are that 1906 will be still better.

The whole United States has been exceptionally prosperous this year, and the South has had more than its proportionate share; with 15-cent cotton, and advancing prices on pine lumber; turpentine, rosin, iron, sugar and fruit, coupled with large industrial investments of foreign capital has brought with them a strong following of intelligent and skilled labor; all this has resulted very advantageously for Atlanta, and gives bright promise of a 200,000 city in 1910, when we will show the world that the New South is truly awake, and setting the pace for the whole country, in industry, education and art.

Now altogether for a great and glorious exposition, and a 200,000 city; let each of us strive to bring one more man here, and give a dollar toward the Exposition once a month. We will never miss the effort and in after years it will be a source of continued enjoyment and income.

POPULATION.

We have now within the corporate limits of the city 110,250 persons, and just outside, closely surrounding our borders within the limits canvassed by the Directory 40,000 more, making 150,250 people that practically all belong to Atlanta.

We will very much appreciate our readers patronizing the advertisers in this book, and will guarantee honest treatment and fair prices if you mention seeing their advertisement here.

Thanking the public for the uniform courtesy with which our representatives have been treated and all our patrons, for their patronage and kindness, and sincerely wishing a continuance of your present prosperity, we remain

Gratefully,

ATLANTA CITY DIRECTORY,

JOSEPH W. HILL, Manager.

- W. B. EMERY, B. S., M. D., Clinical Lecturer on Genito-Urinary Diseases (Genito-Urinary Surgeon to Presbyterian Hospital.)
- E. G. BALLINGER, M. D., Lecturer on Genito Urinary Diseases.
- And 20 additional Lecturers, Demonstrators, Instructors and Assistants.

This College was opened for its first session in October, 1905, and was chartered under the laws of Georgia in the same month. No medical college anywhere in the South ever opened with so many students in attendance. It is intended that this shall be the highest grade school in this part of the country. The present session has been so prosperous that a large, new building will be erected at once on Luckie St.

Clinical Material is abundant.

We have the most earnest and energetic set of teachers to be furnished by the local profession.

Since the instruction is really individual, not just small classes, students can carry on a full course in one-third of ordinary school hours, saving the rest for other work.

Particular subjects can be finished in one-third the usual time.

Hours may be chosen to suit, and the work adapted to particular needs.

Long experience and continued success in this specialty furnish the best references.

This Year's Important Legislation.

From Constitution—

The general assembly of 1906 passed a vast amount of important general legislation, of which an adequate idea was scarcely given by the daily reports.

Of the general legislation which originated in the house, and which was finally enacted into law, the following brief summary will doubtless prove of interest:

Eight new counties were created, and a law passed providing for their proper organization.

A State reformatory for youthful criminals was established.

The railroad commission was given power to require railroads to receive and transport freight promptly.

The general appropriations bill was passed, carrying total appropriations of about $4,200,000.

The general tax act for raising revenue was passed in such shape that nearly $500,000 additional revenue will be raised for the State. Of this about $30,000 will come from the occupation tax on domestic and foreign corporations and about $90,000 from the increased tax on liquor dealers.

A bill was enacted into law under which any county or school district may arrange for local taxation for school purposes.

Licensed embalmers were exempted from jury duty.

A bill was passed to raise $100,000 by taxation to pay off State bonds.

It was provided that bills of exceptions taken to the supreme court may be amended when important matters are omitted.

It was provided that a census of all Confederate soldiers and widows in the State shall be taken by the county tax receivers.

By an amendment to the prison commission act some $13,000 will be saved to the educational fund by requiring that remittances of convict hire shall be made direct to the county school commissioners instead of the county treasurer, who has been accustomed to taking out his commission.

The sum of $5,000 was appropriated to complete a building for the negro college at Savannah.

The sum of $25,000 was appropriated to build a new recitation hall at the Georgia Normal and Industrial College at Milledgeville.

The primary election law was so amended as to make it practically impossible for any one to buy or sell, or attempt to buy or sell, any vote.

It was provided that pensions shall be paid to all Confederate soldiers who served in Georgia commands, regardless of how long they have lived in the State.

Police power was conferred upon captains of passenger steamboats.

The boll weevil law was amended so as to permit the shipment to Georgia of oats from States where the Mexican boll weevil exists.

The sum of $75,000 was appropriated for the purpose of building a new water works system at the State sanitarium.

Appropriations were made to supply the deficits in the pension fund and in the salaries of supreme and superior court judges.

A resolution was enacted permitting the governor to borrow not exceeding $200,000 to supply casual deficiencies in the State's revenue.

An interesting bill passed was that providing for six terms of Fulton superior court. This change in the number of terms will make it possible to get a divorce in Atlanta, as has already been explained in The Constitution, within five months.

A bill was passed amending section 495 of the penal code, so as to make the law relative to the removal of garbage applicable in all cities and towns of 1,000 inhabitants or more.

A law was enacted giving municipal authorities the right to accept grants of land outside of the city limits for public parks.

A law was passed requiring judges of courts to excuse members of the legislature from attendance on courts while the general assembly is in session.

A bill was passed increasing the salary of the chief clerk to the railroad commission from $1,200 to $1,800.

Resolutions were passed urging congress to repeal or modify the Chinese exclusion act and to deepen the harbor at Carrabelle, Fla.

Senate Bills Made Laws.

Almost as many general senate bills were enacted into law as were house bills. Among the new laws to go on the statute books which originated in the senate, are the following:

Provision was made for holding adjourned terms of superior courts whenever the necessity for it arises.

The Code was amended so that building and loan associations are permitted to loan money on rural real estate instead of being confined to cities.

Provision was made for the appointment of a veterinary surgeon by the commissioner of agriculture, whenever his services as may be needed.

It was made a felony with a five-year penalty to throw rocks at or to shoot into any train.

A stringent law was passed providing for the protection of surf bathers.

A law was enacted making drunkenness and disorder on public highways a misdemeanor.

Provision was made for the revival of debts discharged in bankruptcy in certain cases.

The salary of the attorney-general was increased from $2,000 to $3,000.

The game and fish laws were amended so as to permit the shooting of doves from March 15th to September 1st, instead of July 1st, and so as to permit seining for shad and other fish from February 1st to July 1st, instead of starting March 15th.

Sheriffs of practically all counties were required to keep trained bloodhounds for the purpose of tracking criminals.

Telephone companies were given the right of eminent domain, provided they submit to the supervision of the railroad commission.

Arbitrators of corporation tax returns were required to make their reports within thirty days, and they must in all cases be residents of Georgia.

County and municipal bonds were made acceptable as deposits by insurance companies with the State treasurer.

It was enacted that in all cases where bank officers desire to borrow more than 10 per cent. of a bank's capital stock, the loan must be approved by a majority of the directors.

A more stringent law against vagrancy was enacted, subjecting all found to be vagrants to the penalty for a misdemeanor.

A bill was passed providing for regulating the business of industrial life insurance companies.

A constitutional amendment was submitted to the people providing for additional superior court judges in certain cases.

A bill was passed revising the military laws of the State so as to make them conform to the Dick bill.

Assessment life insurance companies were required to make increased deposits in accordance with the amount of business done.

A committee was appointed to investigate the matter of purchasing Tallulah Falls as a public park, and it was provided that the governor of Georgia and the Section 2043 of the Code was amended so as to require life insurance companies to make their guarantee deposits with the State treasurer instead of the insurance commissioner.

A law was enacted creating liens against the assets of banks in favor of holders of receipts for collaterals sent for collection.

The law regarding the making of affidavits outside of the State for use in the State was materially amended.

A bill was passed with a view to removing clouds on the titles of real estate.

A commission was provided for and appointed to investigate the destruction of vegetation in the north Georgia counties by the fumes from the Ducktown copper mines.

A resolution was passed urging congress to enact laws looking to the building up of the American merchant marine, but by other methods than the ship subsidy scheme.

Committees were appointed to visit the various convict camps of the State during the vacation.

Mr. Joseph W. Hill,

C/O The Atlanta Directory,

Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Hill:—

Complying with your request for an expression of our opinion regarding The Atlanta City Directory as an advertising medium, would say that we have found it to be one of the very best business "pullers" we ever used.

As you know, we had a rather poor opinion of it before you induced us to try the test advertisement last year.

The results of that advertisement have been far greater than we ever received before from the investment of a similar amount of money.

You may continue to carry our advertisement, because we believe your Directory is like our goods—the best obtainable.

Wishing you success, we are,

Yours very truly,

Wurtzburger Malt Extract

It is a pure, healthful, non-intoxicating stimulant made from best malt and barley.

Try a Bottle, 15c at Druggists

DR. J. G. EARNEST.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 25, 1905.

Wurtzburger Malt Extract Co., Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR:—The Malt Extracts are esteemed most valuable tissue builders by the medical profession. I have had considerable experience with the Wurtzburger Malt Extract, and believe it to be fully equal to any of the imported brands. I have in many instances seen marked benefit when used by nursing women to increase the flow of milk and in cases of chronic wasting diseases.

Respectfully,

JNO. G. EARNEST.

DR. WM. PERRIN NICHOLSON.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 18, 1905.

Wurtzburger Malt Extract Co.

GENTLEMEN:—In response to your inquiry in reference to my experience in the use of your Malt Extract, I take great pleasure in testifying to its great value as a general tonic, especially in the weakness of convalescence. I have used it freely in my practice and know of no similar preparation that possesses more excellence.

Yours very truly,

WM. PERRIN NICHOLSON.
